With the establishment of Rutgers Biomedical and Health Sciences (RBHS), Rutgers—already a leading national research university—now stands as one of America’s largest, most comprehensive university-based centers for studying and improving human health and health care.

The formation of RBHS comes out of changes associated with the New Jersey Medical and Health Sciences Education Restructuring Act, which took effect on July 1, 2013. The statute transferred most units of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (UMDNJ) to Rutgers. RBHS serves as an umbrella organization for those legacy UMDNJ schools and clinical units, several existing Rutgers units with key health-related missions, and two research units that historically were jointly operated by Rutgers and UMDNJ.
